About our guest speaker:

Andrea Bellemare has been the online host for CBC Kitchener-Waterloo's digital service since the station was launched in March 2013. This is a new position for CBC so her role has been to break new ground using internet technology to enhance the traditional radio experience. By using social media to engage listeners directly, Andrea enables the formation of community connections. This adds a rich local element to the weekday morning K-W broadcast that makes this station unique. CBC Community Team.

Andrea first worked for CBC as an intern in Toronto in 2006. She is a graduate of Ryerson's Journalism program and after traveling the world, rejoined the CBC in 2009, working at CBC News Network, with stints at the CBC Arts Unit, the News Network morning show with Heather Hiscox and with the CBC Community Team. Andrea has also worked as a reporter for the wire service Agence France-Presse and her photos have been published around the world.
